Publication Policy

Standard scientific community practice should apply, with AIC staff receiving the same consideration as would members of your lab. If AIC staff members contribute significant intellectual input or enabling customization of approaches, equipment, or troubleshooting to make the work possible, they should be offered authorship on the resulting papers.

In all cases where data was produced in the AIC, the following acknowledgement should be included in resulting publications:

“Imaging data used in this publication was produced in collaboration with the Advanced Imaging Center, a facility jointly supported by the Gordon and Betty Moore Foundation and HHMI at HHMI’s Janelia Research Campus.”

Users must inform the Center Director of publications, awards, patents and/or other forms of scientific achievement resulting from work conducted fully or partially at the AIC.
